Hi Paula

For any of you out there who have put together a new website, you'll know it's been a long time and a lot of work in the making, but we're proud of it.

Apart from the fancy new homepage, that you can actually 'control the weather' with just the pull of the Stainless Steel chain on screen (Tip: use the roller ball on your mouse to have the sun and moon going fast forward or even backwards)...watch for the bats in the evening and oh, the MCG in the background, plus there is much more to see in the homepage...very iconic! Click here to have a play (...I mean look at our technical data).

So besides the fun of our new homepage, we're pleased to be able to bring you more photos of our blinds in our Gallery section, better descriptions, easier navigation, better functionality for our customers, more thorough, better explained environmental credentials and, of course, the blog to keep you up to date to what's new from our factory and around the world in blinds.

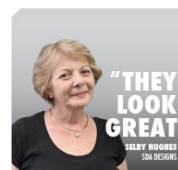

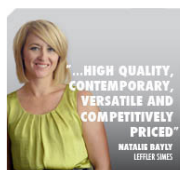

So please take a look around our new web site and leave us your thoughts and any suggestion on the blog page, as this is only the beginning.....
